"In projects that I am concerned my goal is simple, involving a new perspective, making each project brilliant in its own way."

- Adrian Quevedo -

Adrian Quevedo graduated as a Multimedia Engineer from Nueva Granada Military University in Bogotá, Colombia. At College, he was a member of Multimedia Research Group (GIM in spanish) as a research assistant in Interfaces and Multimedia Integration research line. He works as a freelance Digital Art Director (web designer/developer), managing the visual design process, from conception to presentation to implementation.

Adrian is now a graphic designer at Gaming Culture where he defines standard html/css that set a baseline for quality experiences on sites.
